Who am I?

It's one of the oldest questions. In the "old" days, we'd use paper-based documents to verify our identity. Today, these no longer work due to fraud, an inability to act anonymously and...the advent of human cloning.

I've been thinking and writing about this since 2006. Over the last several months, I've sat down and created a series of 11 papers addressing this.

My conclusion? It's time to rethink our vital stats/civil registration systems, create new laws/regulations and also create an EMP proof infrastructure.

I've gone through the 11 papers, re-edited them to ensure they all have the same consistent message and present, here, a listing of them, by subject area, with links to each one:

- New laws required to do this
 - “Why We Need to Rethink Our Vital Stats Laws”,

About the Author

Guy Huntington is a veteran identity architect, program and project manager who's lead as well as rescued many large identity projects with many of them involving identity federation. His past clients include Boeing, Capital One, Kaiser Permanente, WestJet, Government of Alberta's Digital Citizen Identity and Authentication Program and Alberta Blue Cross. As one of his past clients said "He is a great find, because he is able to do high quality strategic work, but is also well-versed in project management and technical details, so he can traverse easily from wide to deep. With Guy, you get skills that would typically be encompassed in a small team of people."
